ABOUT ME

One of the things I like the most is that there is no limit to what you can learn, and that is what motivates me to take on new challenges and experiences. I consider myself proactive and organised, with a great capacity to adapt to any circumstance and always give my best in every project.

I have strong listening, communication and team working skills, as well as a great capacity to understand and learn new things. I am used to working to high personal and professional standards, and I aspire to be able to work in an environment that allows me to develop by learning from others and sharing what I know.
